Featured Librarian: Lois Potter Silver Lake Public Schools

When Lois Potter began working she was a part time Media Specialist and part-time Special Education teacher at Campbell Public Schools. Campbell then merged with Roseland and Bladen to form Silver Lake Public Schools with the elementary school in Bladen and the high school in Roseland. Silver Lake has about 120 students in Grades 7-12 and 90 in Grades K-6. There is now a diverse school population which has helped keep the enrollment level. Lois is the K-12 Media Director, SPED Coordinator for the Silver Lake District, High School SPED teacher, Reading Facilitator and the Accelerated Reading Director. So how does Lois keep all her jobs straight? In the Media Center in Roseland, two aides spend most of their day taking care of the Media Center while Lois teaches SPED students and works with Accelerated Reading and the Stars testing on-line. Twice a year, Lois asks the students for lists of books to order and they give her long lists which she orders for the Media Center. Lois says: "if students request it, I order it, unless it is something inappropriate".

The Media Center is open two mornings a week in the summer since there is no Public Library in Roseland or Bladen. Distance Learning is run through the Media Center where small individualized classes are taught for things such as Advanced Calculus. Lois thinks Accelerated Reading enhances reading and motivates students to improve. Each student receives a MAC laptop computer which has been a wonderful learning tool for the students. They blog about the books they have read and what they liked and didn't like. Lois thinks it is becoming harder to find quality non-fiction for students. They do use NebraskaAccess for research, but it is challenge to make sure the students understand the differences between good and bad websites. Many students see everything on the computer as truth, so Lois does everything she can to teach them to be discriminating users. Lois kept emphasizing time constraints on the teachers, teachers being spread too thin, and never, ever enough time.

School after school has the Media Specialist doing a variety of jobs while the Media Assistants run the Media Center which has made me cringe slightly while talking to the Media Specialist; however, I can see giving students a computer and teaching classes with distance learning creates the individualized learning experience which was only given lip-service years ago. As Lois kept talking, I thought this is really interactive education. The student is a direct part of their learning experience. Schools are changing rapidly. Perhaps the need for a centralized building will soon be a thing of the past too.

Lois likes to travel and listen to audiobooks. She has been doing lots of traveling this summer as she has been to Florida, Branson, Little Rock and the Cheyenne Rodeo where she saw Kenny Chesney. She sews and quilts and is on a quest to download the new maps to her Garmin so she can navigate her way through cities on her travels. She has a husband, 3 children and one perfect grandchild. All in all, Lois is providing the students and teachers a quality media center and doing what she can do with the time she has to spend. Perhaps, in this consolidated world, this is the best any of us can do.

RVLS NEWS

Holdrege Area Public Library launched a 'gamer corner' in their teen area in June. They have a Playstation 2 console and 32 games to choose from. (They plan to expand the number of games soon) Players may play the games at the library or check them out to take home for 3 days. They also have established a children's activity room which they've used for the weekly summer preschool story program, craft club and the monthly Gamer Saturday programs. All of this has been accomplished by more effectively utilizing the space they had.

Everyone had lots of baggage to load into the bus on the return trip from ALA in Chicago. Susan Franklin and Pam Bohmfalk were no exceptions.

WELCOME NEW RVLS BOARD MEMBERS!

Mary Nelson, Dana Wade Mo Khamouna

were elected to the RVLS Board at the Annual Meeting held on June 5, 2009.

FUNDRAISERS

North Platte Public Library Foundation just completed their fundraiser "A Garden Potpourri". Various gardens were showcased and mini-workshops were held at several of the homes. Library Director Cecelia Lawrence showed the culinary uses of herbs and provided samples to attendees. Nearly 200 people attended the tour and 900 raffle tickets were sold with net proceeds close to $2100.

The Friends Foundation of the Blue Hill Public Library created a themed basket for a raffle held during the town's July 4th celebration. The ticket buyers chose which jars to place their wishes in. Ten lucky winners helped contribute $425 towards a new DVD movie collection at the Library. The DVD movie collection is being funded by a grant from Glenwood Telephone Membership Cooperative with matching funds from the Blue Hill Public Library Friends Foundation.

Mary Nelson, Amy Greenland, and Sherry worked hard at the Nebraska Library Leadership Institute retreat in Schuyler July 20-24th.

Congratulations to RVLS libraries qualifying for the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation "Opportunity Online Hardware Grant". The following 9 RVLS libraries qualified and will receive computers, hardware and advocacy training during the next 2 years.

- Beaver City Public Library
- Benkleman, Dundy Co. Library
- Cambridge, Butler Memorial Library
- Curtis, Klyte Burt Memorial Library
- Franklin Public Library
- Hastings Public Library
- Hayes Center Public Library

United We Serve/ Summer of Serve Initiative

Nebraska libraries now have increased opportunities to involve volunteers in their services to their communities under an effort of the federal government to spur Americans to volunteer this summer.

Using a national database provided by the United We Serve effort, libraries and many other entities can register volunteer activities they need to have filled. One potential benefit of these efforts is to turn summer volunteers into life-long advocates for your library. United We Serve kicked off on June 22 and runs through September 11, which will be marked for the first time as a national day of service and remembrance in honor of those who lost their lives. The initiative focuses on four key areas: education, health, energy and the environment; and community renewal.

The American Library Association (ALA) and the White House are encouraging libraries to post their volunteer opportunities at www.serve.gov. (The registration form takes very little time to fill out, and it provides those wishing to volunteer an easy way to find your library's volunteer positions.) As the initiative develops, the ALA will make available resources to assist libraries in conducting volunteer efforts. Visit www.ala.org/unitedweserve for more information.

MONEY SMART WEEK November 9th-15th

By: Sherry Houston.....Attending ALA in Chicago was once again a culturally empowering event. I loved every minute (well maybe not the bus ride back), but almost every session I attended left me thinking WOW—this was wonderful! I attended one session that was an important reminder for all libraries. I really hadn't planned on this session, but it was in the same hotel as the one I attended previously and since distance was always something to be factored in, I thought, well, this sounds like an interesting session, I will just stay. It was called "Revitalizing the Library Experience" and the presenters were consultants George Needham, Library Strategist, and Joan Frye Williams, Library Futurist. They have formed a consulting group called georgeandjoan.com (<http://georgeandjoan.com/>) Their resumes are outstanding to back up their words about libraries.

Here are some of their salient points:

1. Don't treat customers like Walking Workload.
2. Have tools not rules.
3. Libraries are about user experience not librarian experience.
4. The goal is to get the person to come back.
5. Every employee is involved.
6. Treat every transaction as if it is really important.
7. Be more generous to each other.
8. Give respect and get respect.
9. Treat customers like they are smart.
10. Use the passions of staff (if you have a person who has great knowledge about a subject let them work in that area)
11. This is work worth doing.
12. Customer should feel successful when coming to the library.

The last point was their most important point which they repeated over and over. Create a successful experience for the users when they come to the library. Make what they are looking for easy to find or create that successful experience for them. Don't have staff sitting behind a desk pointing vaguely in the distance for some request. It reminded me of the time I was in Colorado and told my daughter I would wait for her at the College Library while she went to class. I thought I would read the paper (when newspapers were still important). I could not find the newspapers in the library. I wandered all over, and didn't even see someone to ask except behind an unapproachable desk. I did see many displays from a benefactor which were interesting, but I never did find the newspaper. I left thinking, what a poor excuse for a library. Think like the customer. Have a greeter when a person comes into the library. Do anything you can to make their time successful. We hear these ideas over and over and don't always act on them, but they are important to keep reminding ourselves.

It isn't all about us, it is all about them!

Oh Good Grief!

Bereavement Issues for Librarians

October 28, 2009

La Vista Conference Center

10am -3pm

Joy Johnson, presenter, who along with her husband Marvin founded the Centering Corporation (www.centering.org) in 1977 to provide education and resources for the bereaved, will be providing tools and techniques to librarians who are helping customers dealing with grief and grieving. The Centering Corporation is dedicated to providing education on grief and loss for professionals and the families they serve.

Death is inevitable but not many of us are comfortable with it. Librarianship is one of the "helping professions" but few have had training in how to help people dealing with end-of-life issues. This workshop will provide tools and techniques for dealing with grief and grieving and will cover the following:

- Become "aware" of your own attitudes toward death
- Develop resources and techniques to use in assisting library customers dealing with the death of a loved one
- Improve ability to assist people facing a terminal illness through library services
- Recognize how mode of death affects responses (suicide, prolonged illness, multi-ple deaths, death of a child...all of those may alter people's attitudes)
- Find resources available in the community and other libraries
- Develop your library's collection to meet the needs of your users as they face end of life issues
- Storytelling
- Soup and salad demonstration of grief

Summer Fun at UNK Library

Looking for ways to play and learn? Come to the Calvin T. Ryan Library of the University of Nebraska at Kearney! Recent additions to the Curriculum Collection include these play guides and lesson planning tools:

Having a Ball: Stability Ball Games includes 73 games that teach balance and coordination. Games for camp or classroom, children and adults will have fun while improving their fitness skills. [Byl, John. 2008. Having a ball: stability ball games. Champaign, IL: Human Kinetics.]

Learn to Move, Move to Learn! Sensorimotor Early Childhood Activity Themes collects games and activities designed to help children of all abilities gain motor, language, sensory, cognitive and social/emotional skills in preparation for school. [Brack, Jenny Clark. 2004. Learn to move, move to learn!: sensorimotor early childhood activity themes. Shawnee Mission, Kan: Autism Asperger Pub.]

Wild, Wild West combines 26 songs with over 300 activities for young children. Remember “She’ll be Comin’ Round the Mountain?” In addition to teaching the song, the book includes activities that are thought provoking and fun. How would the song be different if “she was flying in an airplane” instead of “driving six white horses?” Remember the “chicken and dumplings” and the echo yum yum? What other sounds would fit in this verse and others? [Schiller, Pamela Byrne, Richele Bartkowiak, and Deborah C. Wright. 2006. Wild, wild west: 26 songs and over 300 activities for young children. Beltsville, Md: Gryphon House.]

And , of course, many, many more!

The University of Nebraska at Kearney’s Calvin T. Ryan Library (2508 11th Avenue) welcomes all library users. Any Nebraska resident, 18 years or older, may apply for a special borrower card. Just fill out an application at the Circulation Desk and present a valid Nebraska photo ID. Community members are allowed to borrow five circulating items at a time. What circulates? Most books, books on tape, videos, CDs, and lots of other information resources!

Parking on a university campus is always a challenge! We can help to ease this difficulty by sending you a temporary parking permit, directions, and a campus map with the appropriate parking lots marked. To request a permit, please contact Jennifer Harvey (harveyjs@unk.edu; 308-865-8276) or Rochelle Krueger (kruegerr@unk.edu; 308-865-8819). There is also street parking on the south side and east side of the campus, if you don’t mind a little walk! Many of our resources can also be borrowed through your local library’s interlibrary loan service.

We hope to see you soon!

2009 Summer Reading Activities

This group of children at Hastings Memorial Library in Grant loved story time.

Holdrege Public Library had a “Ham It Up” session during their Summer Reading Program

.....and these participants certainly enjoyed the activities.

Six weekly programs followed the “Be Creative” theme. Over 110 students were each able to try playing a trumpet, drum and guitar with help from Rob Kittle from Kittle’s Music and Wayne Mueller, music director.

Over 125 participated in the reading program with 114 completing at least one reading slip and 37 completing all five reading slips. Children were encouraged to read at least two and a half hours weekly..

“Be Creative @ Your Library” concluded with a talent show at the North Platte Public Library. Entertainment included singers, dancers, piano and drum players as well as a poetry reading, puppetry and hula hoop hosted Kindergarten thru 5th grade youth each Tuesday during their Summer Reading Program. They helped the youth explore the worlds of music, dance, art, books and more.

Elwood Public Library

Auld Public Library in Red Cloud, invited local celebrities to read to the children during their Summer Reading Program. Pictured here is Joyce Terhune, director for the Webster County Museum, reading to the younger group.

Anonymous, Chinese saying

“To read a book for the first time is to make an acquaintance with a new friend; to read it
for a second time is to meet an old one.”
