

The Scotia Consolidated School.

Our school building stands as a memorial to that progressive spirit which made possible the union of the original five districts into one. We appreciate the increased educational opportunities that it has given us. We cherish the memories that it holds for us. We love it and will ever strive to make it more beautiful and useful to those who are yet to pass through its doors.

CLASS PROPHECY.

A stranger on passing through Scotia, a town of some five thousand people in central Nebraska, stopped at the museum. Here he noticed a book telling of an air-plane trip, taken by two of the class of '28 in the year 1948.

The first to be found was Orville Babcock, who was reaping a great fortune from his ideas of perpetual motion. His wife, Alvena, was spending it as fast as possible, sponsoring a home for blind mice. A forced landing was necessary and as luck would have it we alighted near a farm home in the Blue Ridge Mountains. Here we found Blocky and Cecile united. She was doing all the work while he combed the hills for proof of Darwin's theory. Next we visited New York where we found Paul going from house to house buying junk. He told us Margaret was at home guarding the family treasures from their tight fistled landlord.

We then start across the Atlantic and land on a small island, where we find Della and Lynn Vance, now traffic police for the trans-Atlantic trade. A storm blows the plane from its path and next we alight in Africa where we find Alma and Walter as missionaries to the cannibals. They are now trying to get them to eat with a knife and fork instead of their fingers. We turn northward and land in France, where we find that Estele has accomplished two things, the English Channel, and proved that she was more than eleven years old. Next we visit Holland and find Mildred the wife of a prosperous Dutch farmer, busy making butter. We see a lady herding cattle on an adjoining farm and we learn it is Luree Welsh, now the wife of Iver Peterson. She informs us that Earl Dauthitt had been working on the question "What put the wind in windmills?" We turn eastward and land in the Russian capital and here we find that Everett has grown a large beard and is running for the presidency of Russia. We leave him a razor and fly on. In China we find Mollie Lindecker showing a group of Chinese Coolies how to plant rice and much to our amazement one of these is Edward Landgraf, who is secretly studying Chinese Labor Problems. In Hawaii we find Emelia has just won a surf riding contest and getting more publicity than Lindberg in '27.

In San Francisco we find Russell has been arrested for smuggling Chinese girls. He was trying to use his innocent look to swing the jury to his side. His attorney is none other than our sponsor and he is having a hard time trying to convince the judge. In Wyoming we find Lowell branding cattle and we hear a rumor of a little cottage that was to be named "Brownhall." We discover that Beulah is teaching school near by. We arrive in Cheyenne during frontier days, just in time to see "Bus" win the world's championship riding contest. Our last stop is in Denver, and here we find Leland has established a canning factory, using a new idea of his, canning live hot dogs so that the can opener would get a kick out of it.

The sophomores had many enjoyable social functions during the year. The first of these was a "Fox and Hound" hike to Happy Jack. The second event was a swimming party and a watermelon feed down on Mallory's Island. The melons were delicious but rinds were quite hard, as experienced by some of the members of the class who were unfortunate enough to be used as targets. A Hallowe'en masquerade party was the next event with the high school faculty as guests. Beatrice won first prize with a unique Spanish costume.

Part of the money spent for our good times was raised by selling candy at the Scotia games. By this means the class has been kept in good standing financially.

Freshmen.

BERNICE JUNK President
 DELORES MILLER Secretary-Treasurer

The freshman class was organized in the fall of 1927 with a membership of 27. They selected cardinal red and white as their class colors.

They have had several parties and hikes which they have enjoyed very much. One party was held in the school gymnasium, another at the home of Lavern Jess. At the latter, the usual tire trouble added to the evening's entertainment. The favorite destination for hikes was Happy Jacks.

The freshmen are novices in the ways of high school life and it has required a large amount of their time and effort to become adjusted to high school methods. They are hoping soon to be qualified for full fledged sophomores. —Withers.

Chorus.

The high school chorus has had a happy existence. In 1927 its quartet won the silver loving cup at the Central Nebraska Music Contest. Its operetta, "The Japanese Girl," on December 16 of last year, was a great success. This year a bass and a tenor section were added and with them a new kind of success. They made their appearance at numerous P. T. A. meetings where they enjoyed the marked appreciation of the school patrons.

—Selk.

Home Economics Club.

The Home Economics Club was organized in the fall of 1926, and now has a membership of twenty-three. Any girl who is studying Home Economics is eligible to membership. The officers are as follows: President, Geraldine Hall; Vice-President, Margaret Urich; Secretary, Beatrice Clark; Treasurer, Frieda Stanner.

Meetings are held every third week, and various subjects relating to Home Economics are taken up. Each girl is given an opportunity to serve as hostess once a year. One of the outstanding parties of the year was the Christmas party, where the usual Christmas fun of games, tree, and exchange of gifts was enjoyed.

One project is attempted each year. Last year new furnishings for the school dining room were purchased; this year the sewing room has been furnished with drapes and table covers.

An active interest has been displayed and the organization promises to become a very worthy one.

“Pep” Club.

The aim of the Pep Club is to promote school spirit through lending its assistance to any school enterprise. Each member is expected to show his or her pep and loyalty in supporting their team at all times.

The Pep Club sponsored a very successful carnival this year. The proceeds were used to carry on their good work. —Getty.

Football.

At the start of the season there were fourteen letter men on the squad. Orville Babcock, tackle, was captain of the team. The outlook was good as the first game was a decisive victory over Loup City, the only team to defeat Scotia the year before. A mid season slump almost cost the team two defeats but by spectacular playing victories were won. However, the team never fully recovered and lost an Armistice game to St. Paul and the Thanksgiving game to North Loup, the kick after goal giving the game to North Loup. On this day seven seniors played their last game. They were, Orville Babcock, Walter Beck, Russell Sautter, Edward Landgraf, Paul Reynolds, Everett Drake and Albert Anderson.

Basketball.

Seven letter men answered the call for the basketball team, with Walter Beck as captain. The team met with only average success due to lack of good fighting spirit. The team started the season with two one point defeats and almost lost heart. They entered the Kearney Invitation Meet and were eliminated the first round by a defeat at the hands of Minden only after a hard fought game. They also entered the Grand Island Tournament where, with four regulars absent from the team, they won their first game from Burwell and then lost the next to Palmer in the last minute of play. Of the nine letter men only Douglas Badousek, Sidney Scott and Clifford Haggstrom remain.
