BASKETBALL LETTERMEN

M. Harris, E. Sintek, G. Hosch, H. Beck, H. Jensen, S. Johnson, D. Johnson, E. Portis, D. Jeffres.

1. Let's go. 2. Those. 3. Behind scenes. 4. 1st half. 5. 2nd half. 6. Egyptians. 7. A new outlook. 8. By a rib. 9. Best foot forward. 10. Where to?

The objective of the athletic program is to provide enlarged group and individual participation in all activities, and to make more useful those facilities which the school provides. Emphasis is placed on teamwork, individual ability, and sportsmanship. The desire to excel is kept foremost in the minds of the athletes from the grades through high school. The more prominent activities are football, basketball, track, volleyball, and a playground program.

Miss Tumbler

1. Hoold it. 2. Optical illusion of legs. 3. Smiling Gerties. 4. The engine will shake but won't turn over. 5. Future volleyball champs. 6. Junior gals' athletics. 7. Swing it, Myrtle. 8. Senior G. A. A. 9. Huge foundation. 10. Bernice, Izola, and Engine Erma.

Our girl's physical education program is for developing posture, gracefulness, and training ourselves to be good sports.

We develop this gracefulness by participating in such activities, as kittenball, basketball, volleyball, tennis, relays, and folk dancing. Certain health exercises and projects are carried on during the year to help us develop a better posture. Good sportsmanship is taught through competition with ourselves and neighboring towns.

We make many new friends during the year by attending playdays at various towns.

Youth comes to each of us but once. It is the time of life for preparation—for building a basic groundwork of knowledge that will help us to face the trials that confront us as we travel on from youth to manhood and womanhood.

It is for our youth that we are working now—building homes—with the kind of home life that will help to guide them—building schools and putting in those schools the courses and activities that will be most beneficial—and building a community in which they may live and have a greater opportunity in life than we have had. If we keep these things in mind in 1940, and work—we'll make much more progress as a community and reap a greater harvest of success, individually.

Our very best wishes go with the Class of 1940.
