SCOTIA

TIGER

So Long from the Seniors

So long, we'll see you again,
See you again someday,
For after all this world is small,
And we'll meet along life's way.
Good luck to you,
God bless you, too,
But not goodbye, we'll say.
So long, we'll see you again,
See you again someday!

Dedication

We dedicate this annual to the future years. It is its purpose to provide many pleasant memories and to remind the reader of many eventful years spent in Scotia High.

The student council made its appearance once again in Scotia High this year. School problems are brought before and settled by the student council. This year a good-will lunch was served to Taylor after the Scotia-Taylor basketball game.

The preamble to the constitution of Scotia Consolidated High School:

We the students of the Scotia Consolidated High School, in order to form a school of high ideals, to establish a closer co-operation among our students, to promote better relationships with other schools, to provide for the interests of the student body, and to improve the standards of conduct for the school, do hereby establish this as our constitution of the Scotia Consolidated High School.

SETTING: The entire action of the play takes place in the living room of an apartment in Hollywood, California.

TIME: The present.

Senior Day

The Senior class started their Sneak Day in the dim light of 4 a. m. Thursday, April 22.

Shelby provided a nice restaurant for breakfast.

Boy's Town came into view about 8:30 a. m. and its chapel, workshops and other buildings were visited.

In Omaha, Joslyn Memorial, WOW, the World Herald Building, Union Pacific and many other places were visited.

Next came a trip across the state line into Iowa to visit the United Airlines at Omaha Airport. Here they watched the preparation of a meal to be put on board, and the flying of the large airliners.

In the evening most of the class went to the movies. Some of them saw the "King Cole Trio" in person.

The day was enjoyed by the entire class and a tired, happy group reached Scotia late Thursday night.

Class Prophecy

It is the year of 1958. A slightly graying man is sitting at his mahogany desk in Hollywood, California. He has his head lowered in deep concern. He is thinking out loud and we can hear what he is saying: "I have got to. I think I shall take a trip to relax my nerves." As he finished speaking he raises his head. Ah! We are in for a surprise. A great surprise! It is none other than Earl Graff, the famous movie producer. After teaching school two years after the graduating class of '48 he went to Hollywood and was immediately given a 10-year contract as movie producer for the Tu-Whit Tu-Whoo Studios.

"I'll pack my bags and leave on the chartered plane for—let me see, Nebraska. Ah, Yes! Nebraska," he said as he reached for the phone to make his reservations. Next we see him boarding the plane for Scotia, Nebraska. As he looks up his eyes fall on an attractive red head. Who should it be but Maxine Yax, the stewardess. After a long journey he lands at the Scotia Airport where he is immediately taken into town. As soon as he arrives in town he sees another familiar figure. It is none other than Aris Beedle, who is now married and is the president of the woman's club in Scotia.

At this time, realizing that he is tired and hungry, our producer walks up the street to the Corner Cafe and Hotel. This is the famous Henke-Denky Dew Drop Inn. Who is the proprietor? You'd never guess. Why! Its Anna Henke. After a restful and refreshing night the next step of his journey takes us to the famous "Sky Rocket Ranch." Gilbert Sautter is seen training some of his famous palomino horses for mounts from "Knicker Bocker," Mr. Graff takes over! But wait a minute. Mr. Graff must see someone else he knows. Why, who is that feeding the chickens? Of course! It is Gilbert's wife, the former Linda Ita. After leaving the "Sky Rocket Ranch," he realized that he is running short of time and must take a quick journey to the now industrious city of Horace, Nebraska. In order to do this he finds it necessary to take the trip in the famous "Buzz Bug" helicopter.

As Mr. Graff enters the dime store in the city he bumps into a stout, well-dressed distinguished looking gentleman. Mr. Graff looks up into the face of Reverend John Critan Arnold. John informs him that for the past two years he had preached in Horace.

Next we see him in the state of Iowa looking over Willie Sautter's cane fields. Willis has become quite an expert at raising cane. He tells his visitor that another one of his classmates will soon be traveling through. In the instant that he finishes speaking a car is seen entering the driveway. Why, it is Leo Johnson, the traveling salesman. By the way, he is still driving his Model A. It is the same except for the one door that is missing, a cracked windshield and a leaky roof.

Next we see him at a beautiful swimming pool in Chicago, Illinois. Strolling down the walk his eyes are attracted to two figures on the diving board. Why, it is Herbert Jensen and Harlan Christensen, the swimming instructors for the women's classes. They remarked that business is booming.

After bidding the fellows goodbye, he strolled down Fifth avenue. Suddenly he noticed a striking sign. It said "Toots Beauty Parlor." The name struck a familiar note and he entered the shop. Right again. There stood an attractive blonde giving a finger wave. It was none other than Alma Mae Gydesen. After a brief talk and after Toots assured him she was doing quite well, Mr. Graff left the parlor.

Next we see him walking down the hall of Wadsworth College in Chicago, Illinois. Class in mathematics has just been dismissed and above the chatter of the students the instructor is seen chatting with them. Mr. Graff listens. "Why, I should know that voice," he exclaims. A woman advances from the math room and there stands Detta Coufal, book in hand, a pencil in her hair, but with a pleasant look on her face. So Detta Mae enjoys teaching, huh? Here we leave Mr. Graff until we see him in New York City. This is the place where most anything can be seen and it is. Because he likes to look around for new talent he goes to the Stork Club. As he enters he hears a beautiful, melodic voice. The spotlight is centered on a ravishing blonde. As he moves nearer he recognizes the singer to be Dorothy Vanosdall.

The next scene is set on a small farm near New York City. Mr. Graff is speaking to Virgil Hansen, the owner. "And did you know," remarked Virgil, "I sell the best fertilizer in the country." My! Don't we have a variety of occupations?

The next appearance Mr. Graff makes is on a lonely street. As he passes by, a man steps out from a side door onto the street. He closes the door behind him. Immediately he is recognized to be Ernest Beck. He and Jim Dutcher are in partnership. You see at every funeral home there must be an embalmer. And this time it is Jim.

Later Mr. Graff is seen entering the neat little office of J. P. Miller. Behind the desk sits a lovely brunette. Who is it? Why it is Phyllis Byerly. She manages to keep this office as well as her home running smoothly.

The next time we see Mr. Graff he is in the wilderness of Montana. He is surrounded by sheep. At one of his sides stands Gene Morrow. He is proudly showing Mr. Graff his Marine sheep. In the distance Duane Timmons can be seen. He manages to do his job quite well. He is Gene's sheep herder.

Now our producer takes a flight to Alaska. Here in the surroundings of ice and snow in a small village lives Charlene Palser. She has become a successful old faithful school teacher.

Now let us journey to the "Dark Continent." The country of Africa. Here Mr. Graff finds three of the most successful seniors of '48 stranded in the jungle experimenting with a bug. They are Dr. Claire Joan Van Skike and Registered Nurses Miss Keown and Miss Frown. Dr. Van Skike seems to like her profession very well. The nurses remark that they like their work in the psychiatric wards best.

Now we see our famous producer. He is in India. Here he finds two outstanding characters. One of them is the famous missionary, Gloria Babcock. We find that she has done wonders in this country. The other person is Elizabeth Spilinek, who is now a registered nurse. She has made nursing her great profession.

The last time we see our producer, Mr. Graff, he is boarding a plane back to Hollywood. After a long but successful journey he returns to Hollywood. He enters the studio ready to go to work. We are glad he enjoyed his trip.

Class Will

We, the members of the class of Scotia High, having reached the first climax of our careers, have decided to leave behind us for safekeeping all our valuable possessions, namely the following:

We first request that all our grades be thoroughly disinfected so that there will be no danger of future contamination.

To our teachers we have the hope that someday they may again have the privilege of teaching students as well behaved and intelligent as we have been.

To the Freshmen we leave the sincere desire to see them climb the ladder and take each step cautiously as we have done.

To the Sophomores we leave our experience of the past four years along with our best wishes. If they spend as much time working as they do talking, it will be a draw to see who is Valedictorian.

To the Juniors we have valuable personal properties to leave:

Johnny Armold wills his Senior dignity to Don Wegner.

Gloria Babcock wills her quiet ways to Carol Christensen.

Ernest Beck wills his romantic ways to Bob Rasmussen.

Arlis Beedle wills her interest in automobiles to Norma Dulitz.

Phyllis Byerly wills her ability to get a man and hold him to Bonnie Babcock.

Harlan Christensen wills his ability to get to school promptly to Alberta Sautter.

Detta Mae Coufal wills her dancing technique to Anne Stude.

James Dutcher wills his big brown eyes to Lois Polinoski.

Alma Mae Gydesen wills her ability of saying the right thing at the wrong time to Darwin Johnson.

Virgil Hansen wills his "pet wolf" ways to Marvin Gydesen.

Anna Henke wills her shyness to Bill Hughes.

Linda Ita wills her giggles to Alice Spilinek.

Herbert Jensen wills his athletic ability to Jack Bussell.

Leo Johnson wills the remains of his Model A to Harold and Gerald Reck in case they need repairs.

Dolores Keown and Beverly Brown really haven't anything to will, but they will offer their Nurses' Aid services to anyone who thinks they're running a temperature.

Gene Morrow wills his bashfulness to Claris Lybarger in the hope that he will begin using it right away.

Charlene Palsler wills her Loup City boy friends to Pat Burns.

Gilbert Sautter wills his driving technique to Roy Cummings.

Willis Sautter wills all of his love to Carol Thompson.

Elizabeth Spilinek wills her front seat in the study hall to Harlan Palsler, but if Lowell Johnson can beat him to it, he may have it.

Charles Anderson wills his front seat to Lowell Johnson in case he doesn't hit the jack pot before Harlan does.

Duane Timmons wills his muscles and brains to Kenneth Byerly.

Joan Van Skike wills her arguing ability to Loradel Holt.

Dorothy Vanosdall wills her long blonde hair to Helen Walkup.

Maxine Yax wills her red curly hair to Roy Cummings in case he should become bald in his future years.

Mr. Graff, our sponsor, wills his pleasing personality to the rest of the faculty.

And last but not least we leave behind our dear old alma mater many fond memories of our high school years and hope that the future graduating classes will leave it and cherish the thoughts of it as we soon shall.

At the time this was written the authors were believed to be in their sane minds.

Junior-Senior Banquet

"WELCOME TO THE STORK CLUB"

This is the sight that caught the eye of everyone attending the annual banquet May 4, 1948. Doorman Lee Coufal ushered them to the hat check stand with Marie Keep as check girl.

Cocktails were then served in the lounge by cigarette girls, Mavis Portis, Janet Van Skike and Joann Tatlow. The glorious moment came when the curtains were drawn revealing the Blue Room of the Stork Club.

Guy Lombardo's music and the dimmed lights gave real beauty. Here waiters Wayne Springer, Norman Krebs, Andrew Peterson and Gene Keown served the guests. Toby Johnson as toastmaster presented the program in real fashion. Among the members presented were "Abbott and Costello," "The Inkspots," "Andrew Sisters," "Hill Billy Zeke," and "Walter Winchell."

The Scotia Tigers started the year with a new coach and almost an entirely new line-up of players. After losing several early season games the Tigers ended the season by defeating three conference teams in succession. The season scores are as follows:

Scotia	0	Clarks	7	Scotia	13	St. Paul	6
	0	Burwell	32		7	Loup City	41
	0	Fullerton	41		18	Arcadia	0
	0	Comstock	19		6	Sargent	0
					6	Taylor	0

Arlis Beedle Grid Queen

Patsy Barnes, 1946 grid queen, reigned during the first half of the Scotia-Taylor game, attended by two kindergarten pupils, Loretta Jess and Larry Keep.

The new queen ascended the throne on the arm of Willis Sautter, honorary football captain for 1947, and was presented with the crown by Queen Patsy. Senior princesses were Dorthy Vanosdall and Beverly Brown.

Junior attendants were Helen Walkup and Loradel Holt; sophomore attendants, Janet Van Skike and Barbara Ashley; and freshmen attendants were Bonnie Bremer and Berniece Bussell.

On behalf of the football team Honorary Captain Sautter presented the queen with a lovely topaz flowered gold necklace and the senior princesses with matching Evening in Paris sets.

Track

Track season opened with twenty-seven reporting for practice. Those boys are: Seniors: W. Sautter, G. Sautter, J. Arnold; Juniors: H. Reck, G. Reck, H. Palser, C. Lybarger, J. Bussell, R.
