Tiger

1949

Foreword

As we come to the end of our trail, we leave this book as a mark of achievement. In it are represented the activities in which we have taken part, and the friends we have made during our school days at Scotia High. May it always help us to remember the things which mean so much to us now.

Mr. Jensen

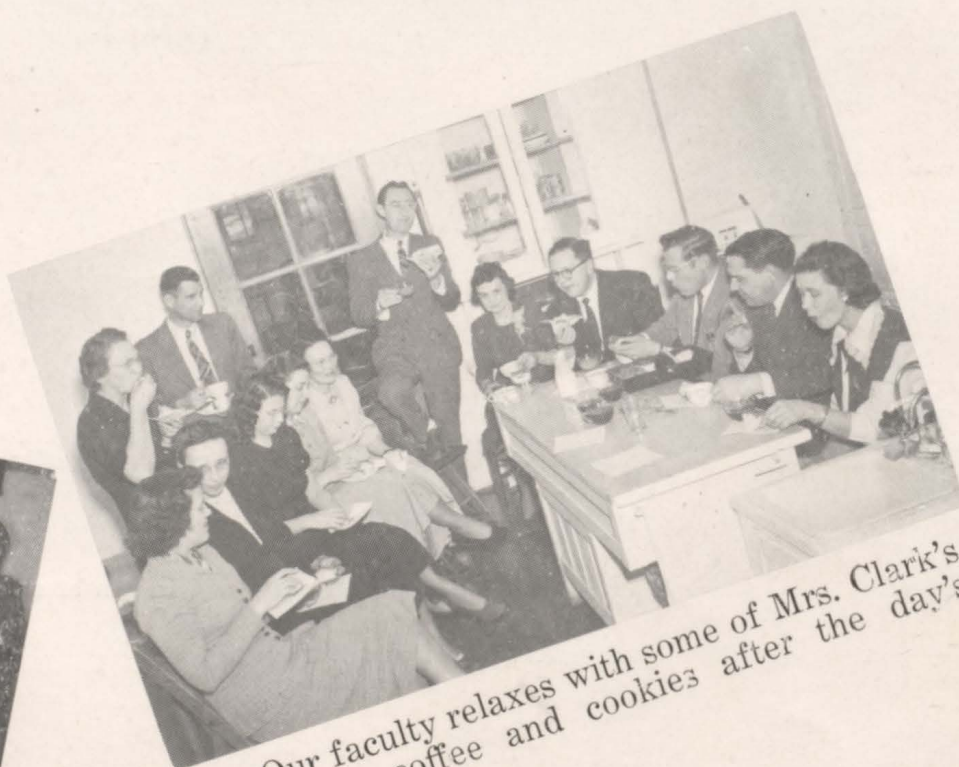

Dedication

To Mr. Jensen, who has worked so diligently to make Scotia High a better school, and who has endeavored to make useful men and women of us, we gratefully dedicate this annual.

Class Prophecy

In the year of 1960, we find the Seniors of '49 enjoying their long awaited trip to Chicago. Since their last meeting they have accomplished a lot—but, no more than was expected from such an outstanding class.

Mr. Jensen, Superintendent of Scotia School, wonders what his class of Modern Problems have made of themselves, so to calm Mr. Jensen's nerves, we shall carry on and try to show him what has become of them.

We see them all grouped around a huge table at the Pomp Room of the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago. Looking from left to right we see Jack Bussell. Jack is now the No. 1 News Commentator in America. In the evening he and his charming wife can be seen doing acrobatics and entertaining in an uptown night club. You'll all remember his wife as our own Helen Joyce Walk-up. Loradel Holt is seated by her business partner, Robert J. Rasmussen. Loradel is owner of a Ladies' Apparel Shop with styles by Robert John Rasmussen, The World Famous Designer of "Women's Lingerie, Made to Fit." Red Cummings has gone into a very easy and profitable business. He is now the new owner of the Stork Club. We hear that he spends most of his time there. However, he will not tell us whether it is the "Wine, Women, or Song" that has attracted his attention.

Pat Burns and Carol Christensen are engaged in a conversation with Dr. William John Hughes. They are Psychiatric Aids to Dr. Hughes at the State Mental Hospital in Paris. And next we find Harlan Paizer wearing his snappy uniform. Harlan is carrying out the duties as a guard at Alcatraz. Just the duties of a guard? !!! We hope! Anne Stude—Oh yes, we all know what Anne is doing. Anne is quite occupied at Miami Beach where she models the beautiful French fashions.

Alice Spilinek and Alberta Sautter have satisfied their hunger by opening a quiet little business named "The Little Spaghetti Shoppe." Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reck and bachelor Gerald Reck are living on an elegant country estate in New York. Harold is a Professor at the University. He teaches "How to Raise a Family." Gerald, of course, teaches in an entirely different field. It is that of "How to Make Love—First Hand information." Gerald is still just as much a Romeo as he ever was. Hope he gets over it some day.

Who is that distinctive looking man? Let's get a better look. Oh yes, now we can see. It's Reverend Lowell Johnson, Pastor of the Evangelical Church. (Say, he ought to be a good one.)

The Class of '49 has every talent imaginable—not the least of which is a Metropolitan Opera singer. She is Lois Polinoski Cetak. Her singing is accompanied by an All-Girl Orchestra under the direction of Ward Fischer. He tells us that he left dear old Scotia after much coaxing. We can tell from the expression on Norma Simpson's face that she is happy now that they have moved to the beach. Her only comment on the beach was that she, Don, and little Felix were getting tired of eating fish. We even have a joint partnership from out of the Senior Class. Don Wegner and Marvin Gydesen started out to write the History of the backward people of the Ozarks. After spending a few years in that country they gave up writing and have settled down to enjoy life with the rest of the folks down "thar."

We all know the next gentleman—Senator Darwin Johnson. He is very prominent in our Nation's Capitol. At the present time he is sponsoring a bill to make it illegal for girls to have their dresses come more than 2 inches below their knees. Evidently he never lost his ability to talk, as he seems to be doing plenty of it. His charming secretary, Carol Thompson, says he dictates a whole book of notes a day. Ten secretaries are kept busy transcribing Carol's notes. It must be nice to be the boss' favorite secretary and do nothing but take notes all day. Carol says that Toby's lap is very comfy.

It seems everyone has been accounted for on this trip. But, wait a minute—what about Kenny Byerly? He came in late and is sitting clear over on the other side of the room. Ken is a test driver for the new jet-propelled cars which will do about 350 miles an hour. This is a slight increase in speed for Kenny, but not much. The last member of the Senior Class of '49 is Bonnie Keown. She and her husband, Bernard Keown, are working as missionaries in China. Bonnie is teaching the little Chinese children to speak English and between times she is teaching the little Keowns to speak Chinese.

As we leave here tonight many of the Classmates will go back to their work while others will go to Scotia to visit other old friends, but wherever they go, they will go with the feeling that at least they got their trip to Chicago together, even though they all paid their own way.

And wherever they go, we know that they will be extremely happy.

Class Will

We, the members of the mighty Senior Class, know that the time has come when we must part from our dear Alma Mater. It is our last wish that we might leave the few items which we treasure. We sincerely hope that you will accept them in the manner in which we give them.

To our dear old Alma Mater, we will our love and loyalty forever, knowing that she is the best that can be found anywhere.

To the Teachers, we will our remembrances as the most outstanding and outspoken class, with our deepest respects.

To the Sophomores, we will our understanding of teachers and we hope that they may get along with them better than we did.

To the Freshmen, we will our good examples of "Never Being Satisfied" and may they get all the advantages possible from our efforts.

To the Juniors we will our most valuable and highly prized possessions:

Bonnie Keown wills her ways with the Keown men to Peggy Meyer.

Pat Burns will her irresistible tresses to Velma Blanchard.

Jack Bussell wills his proficient tactics with Mumbles to Phil Jensen and Gene Keown.

Little Ken Byerly wills his structure to Big Ed Anderson.

Carol Christensen wills her shorthand technique to Gordon Rubenthaler.

Red Cummings wills his good grades to Barbara Ashley and Janet Van Skike.

Norma Dulitz wills her chicken-cackle titter to Lee Coufal.

Marvin Gydesen wills his quiet conduct to Joann Tatlow and Virgil Barnes.

Loradel Holt wills her seat in Bob R's car to Norman Krebs.

Bill Hughes wills all his dates to Phyllis Curley.

Lowell Johnson wills ME, MYSELF, and I to Madelyn Keep.

Harlan Falser wills his brotherly love to Billy Falser.

Lois Polinoski wills her "engaging" personality to Joann Sautter.

Bob Rasmussen wills his basketball technique to Kenny Cornell.

Gerald Reck wills his ingenuity with females to Bob Fischer.

Alice Spilinek wills all of her school books to Wayne Rich.

Anne Stude wills her Pepsodent Smile to Russell Striker.

Carol Thompson wills her revealing facial demonstrations to Florian Johnson and Edwin Douthit.

Helen Walkup wills her style of fox-trotting and rumbaing to Mavis Portis.

Don Wegner wills his "Something" to Andy Peterson.

And last, but not least, we will to our sponsor, Mr. Pscherer, all our hope and luck to a grand guy who has been so faithful as our sponsor for three years.

On this Great Day of April 1, 1949, We, the Senior Class, do solemnly declare that this is our last will and testament.

Senior Play

"You'll Die Laughing"

The jam-packed crowd in the high school gym sat breathlessly on the edges of its chairs as the Senior Class presented its play, "You'll Die Laughing."

The play took place in a supposedly haunted house on one stormy evening. The lightning flashed, the thunder clapped, and in the distance a ghost cat could be heard yowling "for some human tongue to eat," while the spectators screamed at the top of their lungs. Several times during the play the stage was in total darkness and all that could be witnessed were the shrieks of the cast, thunder and lightning, the Ghost-Girl's appearance and her hideous laughter, the Ghost-Boy dragging his clanking chain across the floor, and more or less just a sound of wild confusion. The Ghost-Girl's picture hung on the wall and occasionally broke into tears as she sobbed for her murdered lover. Otto Swartz, an old German fellow, scared the liver out of everyone when he stuck his head in the French doors and spoke when no one knew he was around. The Negro couple were always going around yipping about being afraid of the dark, but in the end they turned out to be a big front, as they were white people impersonating Negroes. It was the prediction of the housekeeper that someone in that house would "Die Laughing" and, surprises of surprises, it was the housekeeper herself who "DIED LAUGHING!"

Much to the relief of everyone it turned out that the whole thing was just a hoax to scare the stuttering college boy out of seeing too many horror pictures, so that he could settle down and study. Everyone in the audience tried in vain to figure out who the culprit was, but most confessed afterward that they were glad it ended the way it did because they didn't know otherwise, whether they could have gone home to sleep after seeing it.

The cast was as follows: Bridget Mulquoon-Carol Thompson; Kim Waller-Gerald Reck; Tommy Upton-Harlan Palser; Lawyer Hackett-Harold Reck; Diana Dalhart-Norma Dulitz; Marilla Dalhart-Bonnie Keown; Augustus Caesar Jones-Toby Johnson; Peachy Jones-Anne Stude; Mrs. Kitty Pike-Carol Christensen; Iona Pike-Loradel Holt; Otto Swartz-Bill Hughes; The Ghost Girl-Pat Burns; The Ghost Boy-Bob Rasmussen.

Between the second and third act the cast presented Mr. Tobias with a present and a birthday cake, while the entire audience sang "Happy Birthday."

Lowell Johnson was stage manager, Pat Burns and Bill Hughes were in charge of sound effects, and Bonnie Keown and Mr. Tobias were in charge of make-up.

Sneak Day

Suitcases in hand and 99 9/10 per cent asleep, the Seniors began their TWO-day sneak trip at 5:00 o'clock Friday morning, April 22, 1949. After a blow-out on the bus and a stop-over at Shelby for breakfast, the Seniors arrived at Boys Town for a 11:00 o'clock tour. They had the privilege of visiting the cathedral and many other new buildings. From Boys Town they motored to Omaha to see the New World-Herald building where they saw the evening paper go to press. Union Pacific museum was next on the program. After checking in at their hotel they met in the coffee shop—girls with Gardenia corsages and boys with sleek shoe shines—for a banquet dinner. The evening entertainment consisted of seeing Nelson Eddie in person and dancing to a marvelous orchestra at the Music Box.

Saturday, immediately after breakfast, they motored to the airport where many enjoyed rides in a four-passenger plane. Next was Joselyn Memorial, which stunned many by its beauty. The rest of the time was spent sight-seeing, shopping, swimming, or seeing movies. Many had the honor of seeing Dick Contino, a star of Horace Heidt's show, in person.

After two glorious days in Omaha, the Seniors arrived home at 3:00 o'clock Sunday morning. They will always remember their sneak trip as one of the highlights of their high school days.

Junior Class Play

"The Great Ben Allah"

Formal Junior-Senior Banquet

Saturday evening, May 7, was the date of the gala Junior-Senior banquet. Approximately eighty students and teachers were present at the formal affair.

The theme of the banquet was Venus, with rose and silver the predominating colors. The program was made up of several musical numbers and following the dinner a dance was held for all.

A delicious dinner was prepared by the Junior mothers, and was served by Berniece Bussell, Donna Babcock, Mary Moody, Juanita Everett, Charles Kasson, Henry Kasson, Frank Beedle, and Lumier Hanzel.

A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

F A R E W E L L

We were a class at Scotia High,
That often made the teachers cry.
We brought the school a lot of fame,
But others like to call it shame.
We thought to glory we would fasten,
But that was blocked by Henry Kasson.
The teachers we would try to needle;
We were excelled by Frankie Beedle.
In our class there is some sorrow,
As in the case of Shirley Morrow.

So now we're off to Juniors' wars—
Farewell, oh school—as Sophomores!

Queen

Miss Berniece Bussell and Miss Peggy Meyer were the two candidates chosen by the Scotia students to represent Scotia at the St. Paul Fair and Harvest of Harmony festivals.

Berniece, who was selected to reign over the St. Paul fair, gave a sparkling demonstration of first-rate baton twirling as she maneuvered the band across the fair grounds.

Peggy, atop a snappy yellow convertible, led the band in the parade through the streets of Grand Island at the Harvest of Harmony Festival.

Hitting the High Notes

The music program started with a bang with many profitable highlights. To begin its successful year of popular appearances the band took part in the annual Pop Corn Days celebration at North Loup. The following week the musicians motored to St. Paul and won second place at the St. Paul Fair. After that came the Harvest of Harmony where they strutted their way to third place in Class C bands. The Orange and Black made their appearance among large crowds at Band Day at Lincoln Memorial Stadium and also between halves of home football and basketball games.

The Christmas Season was featured by the interpretation of Fred Waring's " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas" by the mixed chorus.

Scotia was well represented at the district contest at Fullerton April 8 and 9, where they brought home five superiors, 10 excellents, and three goods. Those receiving superiors were Barbara Ashley, Berniece Bussell, Jack Bussell, Band and Chorus.

Our hats are off to the Director Ward F. Pscherer and his musical accomplishments, of which Scotia community is mighty proud.

Curtain Call

The first event on the dramatics schedule was the Junior Class Play, "The Great Ben Allah," held December 7. A large crowd was in attendance, in spite of Ol' Man Winter's devilment, and it was rumored that this play was the best given in Scotia for many years. The juniors are justified in being quite proud of themselves, because they worked hard to make the play the success it was.

Next on the dramatic itinerary was the trek through mud to the district dramatic contest held at Ansley. Scotia was well represented and received some fine ratings. A new adventure for Scotia was the radio newscasting. Buddy Hanzel entered this category and received a rating of "excellent." Phyllis Curley received a "superior" for poetry reading. "Excellents" were awarded to Janet Van Skike for her dramatic reading of Macbeth, and to Bonnie Keown for extemporaneous speaking. Leona Clement received a "good" for her humorous reading, and the one-act play, "The Happy Journey," was also rated "good."

Last but not least on the schedule was the Senior Class Play, "You'll Die Laughing." It was presented on April 19 to a full house who shrieked and thrilled at the ghostly goings on.

We all want to thank Mr. Tobias for the splendid work that he has done with his dramatics class and especially with the Junior and Senior plays.

Football

The Tigers had a good season. They started with nine regulars, but many good prospects turned out for practice. After winning four straight games, the team suffered its first loss against an outstanding Loup City eleven. In conference play, the Tigers remained undefeated until the last game of the season. In a crucial finale against Taylor, the team lost a squeaker, 7-0, and took 2nd place in the Loup Valley Conference.

Pigskin Parade

November 4—Scotia Football Field—At the annual Homecoming game of the year, Arlis Beedle, 1947 Grid Queen, reigned over the first half of the Sargent-Scotia game.

Co-captain Toby Johnson escorted the new 1948 football queen, Norma Dulitz to the throne. Co-captain Harold Reck escorted Princess Helen Walkup and Gerald Reck escorted Princess Loradel Holt. Junior attendants were Mavis Portis and Peggy Meyer; sophomore attendants, Eonnie Bremer and Mary Moody; and freshman attendants Mary Kay Grohosky and Fern Miller.

On behalf of the football team, the co-captains presented the queen with two lovely lamps and the senior princesses with dresser sets.

The Scotia Tigers had a fairly successful season, winning nine games while losing eight.

Highlights of the season were the team's spectacular wins over Primrose, 37-35 in a double overtime at Scotia, and 44-34 at Wolbach to capture the 3rd place trophy in the Cedar Valley Conference (see picture on right). The Tigers also placed 3rd at the Loup Valley tournament.

On March 2nd, the team journeyed to Ravenna to the district tourney and was beaten by Ansley, thus bringing the season to a close.

Bob Rasmussen and Bill Hughes were elected co-captains by members of the squad.

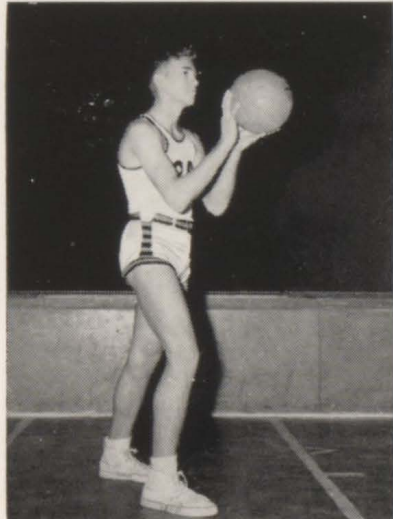

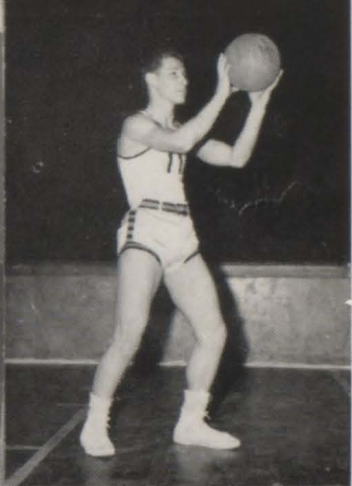

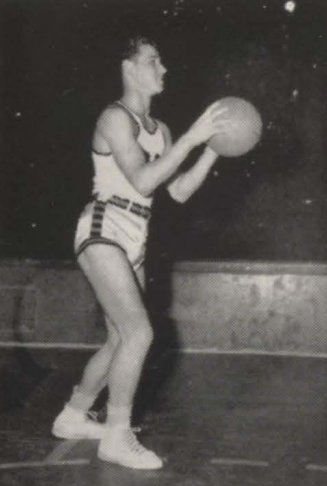

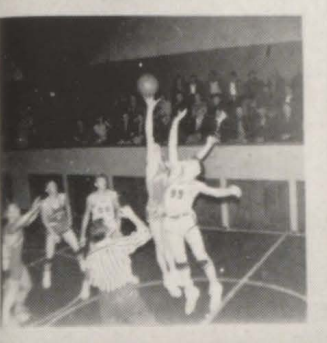

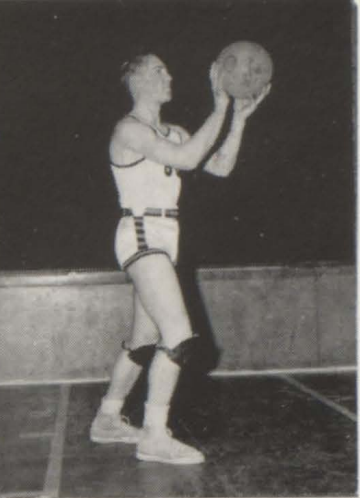

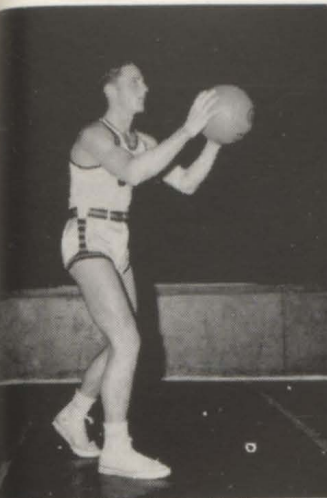

Lettermen were: Darwin Johnson, Frank Beedle, Bob Rasmussen, Bill Hughes, Jack Bussell, Harold Reck, Gerald Reck, Wayne Springer, Andrew Peterson, Gene Keown, and Eugene Beck.

HUNTING "BEAR"

I once knew a trapper from Nebraska
Who went to Alaska.
He picked up his gun
And started out on a run.
He arrived up there
In time for hunting bear.
With a guide named Nick
He found the bears to be very thick
He saw a bear and aimed his gun,
And Oh, how that bear did run.
But it wasn't any use,
For the bullets were let loose,
And that was the end of the big fat bear,
Whose skin was then used on a chair.

THE GOB AND THE GIRL

There was a sailor from Maine
Who met a wonderful dame.
She was tall and pretty, too.
He just had to say Yohoo.
He got out a book
And took another look.
He put his book in his coat
And got on the boat.
And went sailing away.
And so did the girl named May.
By Bobby Holt

LEFT AT THE ALTAR

There was a young lady named
Grace,
Dressed in a gown of lace.
She walked down the aisle of the church
But the groom left her in the lurch.

Janitor Jim

Rain or shine, snow or mud, Scotia School House is always clean; thanks to Jim Carruth. Regardless of the amount of work to be done, Jim always wears a big grin on his face.

Keeping the school house clean is no easy task but considering everything, Jim does a mighty good job.

From all of us to Janitor Jim we salute you—Thanks a million.

FIRSTS! Bonnie Babcock holds the honor of being the first of the class of '49 to get "hitched." She was married to Bernard Keown at a beautiful and impressive ceremony on Christmas Eve. Above right: For the first year, the Scotia seniors have been taking a class in Modern Problems under Supt. Jensen. Above—some of the seniors gather around the weekly newsmap preparing for the Friday test and discussion.
